The Health Resource Center (HRC) is a program in the Division of Child and Adolescent Health at the Boston Public Health Commission (BPHC). The HRC delivers comprehensive health education to students in eight Boston Public high schools. HRC health educators teach classes on topics like healthy relationships, sexual health, gender and sexuality, substance abuse prevention, and preventing/coping with depression and anxiety. They also provide a confidential drop-in space for students seeking free one-on-one health education and counseling.
